PROFILE

I'm an IT student who finds satisfaction in building things that actually work for people whether that's a desktop system, a web app, or something in between. I'm drawn to the full process, from figuring out the problem to shipping something clean and functional. I'm at my best when I'm learning by doing, and I bring the same patience and attention to detail I've picked up from my other passion farming, into everything I build.
